

Regional Studies - China and Asia (36h)

Objective

At the end of the course the student should be able to:

- acknowledge the main debates on the region of China and Asia;
- analyze the processes and challenges in the region.

Syllabus

The conjuncture of the Asian region, its main themes and challenges.

Methodology

Interactive classes, assignments carried out based on the suggested bibliography, guests and external visits.

Evaluation

N1 = 40% - N2 = 60%

Agenda - Topics

Presentation of the Syllabus

Distance Learning Class - Structuring the Action Groups

Asia in the international system and China as a pivot

Week of Studies – Economics and IR

Understanding the rise of China

China's future: the "One Belt, One Road"

The relationship between powers: the US-China dialogue yesterday and today

Distance Learning Class - N1

International Contemporary Politics of Japan

Abenomics and the demographic issues of Japan

Cultural Diplomacy and National Branding: the way to Japan House

The Dilemma of the Koreans: historical contextualization

South Korea: development, education and technology

North Korea: nuclear isolation and development

Distance Learning Class - N2